No more: harassment, peer pressure, staying silent!
Women are allowed to speak up and say NO to inequality and injustice!

- "Hey, did you hear about that girl who got expelled for beating up a dude in the lunch line? He grabbed her butt!
- It's so unfair! He's the one who should've been kicked out, not her. What if there was some way we could make the truth known?"

Rachele runs the high school paper, and she's not about to take more injustice lying down. It's been going on for too long, with everyone looking the other way. She decides to call on all the girls and women in the school to stand with her and go on strike. It's time they made their voices heard. It's time some things changed around here!
