The food chain like you've never seen it before in this rambling tale, a comical instant classic!

It all starts with a tiny, ordinary bluebottle fly who meets a frog. The frog makes a quick snack of him and becomes... blue all over! This picaresque presents the food chain in all its funny and formidable glory. Large or small, insect or mammal, no one escapes the food chain. Everyone becomes blue and finally gets eaten. This instant classic, with realistic illustrations that come alive with a beautiful electric blue, delivers a terrific twist ending. It all makes sense when, on the last page, a blue human being leaves some blue poop behind a tree... and a little fly lands on it! Hilarity ensues, and readers won't be able to wait to read it again.
