"Taking an original, stimulating approach, Abis & Blanc introduce us to agriculture's vast geopolitical stakes." ~ Pascal Boniface, Director, French Institute for International and Strategic Affairs

Agriculture is at the heart of geopolitics. How many conflicts arise from disputes over land or the water supply? How many revolts are also caused by hunger? Can we dream of sovereignty or power without food security? These questions run through contemporary history, resurfacing in the news. From clichés to reality, this book tells us about places, facts, and figures to enable us see the world more clearly. Authors Abis & Blanc are acknowledged specialists and offer 40 documented fact sheets to help us understand the issues and challenges involved in this ancient and universal activity. The book is illustrated with maps, graphs, and tables.
