Like humans, landscapes and places are alive and evolve over the years.

Emmanuelle Guattari grew up under the wide-open skies of the Loire Valley, in the clinic of La Borde where her father used to work. Here, she explores her memories of childhood and adolescence, sometimes moving, often funny, always full of tenderness and freshness. She paints an intimate portrait of her family, harmoniously blending biographical details of cousins, uncles, grandmothers, and parents with places and landscapes which, like humans, are alive and evolve over the years.
