Thought-provoking combinations of photos, art, and writing about our relationship to the world's oceans.

This book uses three modes of creative expression to develop themes of sustainability and the environment. Each two-page spread puts a color photo taken from the skies in conversation with an ink drawing by Zaü, tying both together with short pieces written by Alain Serres, doubtful yet hopeful all at once. A follow-up to a previous book built on the same principle: I Shall Be the Earth's Eyes.
