A Quiet Morning in Korea

At Work in the Fields

Author: Laura Dilé (Text/illustrations)

Publisher : Akinomé

Category : Art

Genres : Painting/Graphic Arts - Illustrated Books

Keywords : South Korea - Countryside - Uprooting - Self-confidence - Wound

The sixth title in a hit series discovering countries and their traditions through authentic, engaging encounters with locals and their daily lives.

Words and colors from a traveling painter.

This series explores unique and original aspects of a single country through an artist's eyes.

Laura Dilé shares her stories of South Korea off the beaten path. Part I has her diving headfirst into Seoul, discovering a new language and culture. Part II recounts her work on organic farms in exchange for room and board (known as "WWOOF-ing"). From farm to farm, deep in the Korean countryside, she paints quietude, architecture, and labor in the fields, but also gastronomy, music, and traditions.
