A story with environmental resonance featuring a house with tons of character determined to reconcile its inhabitants with where they live!

A pretty house in a nice neighborhood is the joy of those who live there and take care of it. But when harmony gives way to jealousy, one particular house decides it's time for a change of scene. Off it goes, landing in a little corner of paradise in hopes of offering its inhabitants a new life.

Her illustrations brimming with verve and color, Jeanne Macaigne asks us the hard questions about our relationship to the home we share: the Earth.
