When rebel animals decide to swap some of their most recognizable traits with each other, the results are utterly fanciful chimeras!

The animals are in revolt, none of them are happy! The leopard is worried he might have a heart attack, the toad can't stand his leathery skin anymore, the dachshund is fed up with his short legs, the snail wants to get rid of his shell, the octopus' tentacles are all tangled up... The animals have had enough! They want change! Through the magic of words and pictures, Olivier Besson grants them their craziest wishes, creating never-before-seen creatures. With over forty woodcut engravings and a wild imagination, this beautiful picture book is an ode to the animal world. A chimerical bestiary that will delight children of all ages.
