Editorial cartoons from around the world about the current ecological crisis.

The United States has withdrawn from the Paris climate agreement. The planet's annual resources are exhausted in less than eight months. This is the time Yann Arthus-Bertrand has picked to draw our attention to the declining condition of our home, planet Earth. Selected by Cartooning for Peace, 60 editorial cartoonists worldwide remind us of the risks of pollution, the importance of renewable energies, and the consequences of global warming.
