A boy gets a goldfish. Convinced it has special powers, he calls it Superfish. And actually, it will save the Earth from car pollution.

All you dream of is a pet, and you get... a goldfish! What a disappointment! But fortunately, Superfish is a fish unlike any other: choking on pollution, he jumps out the window and... saves the Earth! In rushing out to retrieve him, Superfish's young owner paralyzes traffic in the street, then the neighborhood. The traffic jam spreads through the city, then the entire country, before immobilizing every vehicles on the planet, which at long last gets to take a deep breath! A book bursting with humor in word and illustration, sure to spark many a conversation with children about pollution and the power of the imagination.
