"There is nothing more elusive than the obvious."

Alexander Kreskine is one of the world's greatest illusionists. His shows are so incredibly masterful that you might think him an actual wizard. Or perhaps even... the devil!

While on tour in Paris, Alexander meets Sam, a young man who is obsessed with the art of illusion. Recognizing himself in Sam, Alexander becomes his mentor. Sam leaps at the opportunity and works hard to uncover Alexander's secrets. But Kreskine's brilliant surface hides a poisonous and unstable personality. Their relationship quickly becomes toxic, to the point of transforming admiration into a destructive impulse. A dangerous game begins, blending illusions and reality...
