David Merveille is back in these comic strips depicting the daily life of Monsieur Hulot with his inimitable, timeless, and off-the-wall humor.

After exploring Mr. Hulot's love life in Monsieur Hulot's Parrot, David Merveille revisits Jacques Tati's celebrated character in a series of 22 comic strips full of poetry, humor, and subversiveness. Once again, Merveille shows readers how Monsieur Hulot is at once old-fashioned yet timeless, through visual games, movie and book references, and allusions to current events hidden in these short comics.
