Buckle in! You're about to be amazed. You're headed for the stars!

More than 50 years ago, the USSR set off the "space race" with the launch of Sputnik 1, which provoked both fear and admiration in those who managed to tune into its broadcast signal. Today, thousands of satellites, rockets, probes, landing modules, and more have followed in its wake. Spacecraft recounts this entire saga, all the way up to the present day.
