Pioneers, adventurers, racers, inventors—they dare do it all!

Motoladies presents the amazing stories of over 70 female motorcycle pioneers, from racers and record breakers to stuntwomen, designers, world travelers, and artists! Elfving draws a line from the pioneers of yesteryear right to today's influential women bikers, showing how motorcycles can be a formidable way of taking control of your own destiny. Follow the Van Buren sisters as they cross the United States in 1916, the late motorcycle builder Jessi Combs as she set speed records, and author-adventurer Lois Pryce... This book pays tribute to the women who have opened up new horizons for the entire motorcycling community.
