"A unique memoir like a crime novel, revealing the addictions and excesses of untouchable jetsetters, mafiosos, and the global economic-political elite."

For 22 years, Laurent Sénéca was a croupier at the highly secretive Casino de Monte-Carlo, an establishment that attracts stars, politicians, mobsters, and billionaires from all over the world. Here, far from the spotlight and shielded from prying eyes, they engage in the most extreme behaviors. Organized crime, drugs, sex, money laundering, violence: monsters lurk in the light of these chandeliers. But beyond this shocking exposé, Sénéca also looks back on his own journey: an ordinary man with an extraordinary career rubbing shoulders with incredibly wealthy men and women who have often lost touch with their humanity, and eventually cause you to lose your own.
