One author's project to reconstruct his memories and those of departed loved ones while bringing them back to life through drawing.

It's certainly not easy to define yourself when you were born in Baghdad to a Greek mother and an Armenian father, and then grew up in Beirut until the age of 16, just before the outbreak of the Lebanese Civil War. By recalling his own memories and reconstructing his family history, Charles Berberian invites us along on his journey back to his roots in the most personal and universal book of his entire oeuvre.
