What looks the same... doesn't necessarily go together!

Betty, a little hedgehog, wants to make some friends. But it's not easy! So she decides to change her appearance every time she meets someone new: shaved hair, messy hair, a mane... But it doesn't work. In the end, the other animals come to her when she's feeling sad. And not because she's trying to look like them!

A picture book for little ones that follows in the footsteps of Gaëtan Dorémus's previous titles with Rouergue, this time exploring loneliness and conforming to your surroundings.
