Enough is enough! Harry the alligator is sick and tired of humans.

Harry the alligator has had it up to here with humans: they chase him, track him down to lock him up in a zoo, or hunt him for his hide. What's more, they pollute his bayou with their garbage, waste, and chemical products. Is the water greener on the other side? Through a series of encounters, our alligator discovers that another species is also under threat: humans themselves! A fable told in rhyme and with plenty of humor about the fragility of our planet and its inhabitants.
