A Manifesto for Artisanal Psychiatry

Author: Emmanuel Venet

Publisher : Verdier

Category : Humanities and Non-Fiction

Keywords : Psychiatry

This book could've been called: Against Industrial, Standardized, Digitized, Objective, Disembodied, Inegalitarian, and Fast Psychiatry.

The situation is serious: the powers that be have abandoned and impoverished public psychiatry, several leading lights of the profession agitate to establish managerial streamlining, and the most vulnerable patients are paying the price for a healthcare economism devoid of scruples. Worrisome observations, when you know that one in three French citizens have suffered, are suffering, or will suffer from mental disorders. But it's not too late to bring back a small-batch, hand-tailored, artisanal that is considerate and respectful, taking its time with the quirks of every individual in treatment. Such is the hope of this manifesto.
