A lively, colorful approach to tackling a topic children may find themselves facing: physical disabilities.

To celebrate its 100th anniversary, Coline's school has planned a big day of athletic events. And Coline is all too happy to participate! Except that no one wants to team up with her. True, her body doesn't always obey her brain's commands, which can make her movements a bit chaotic. But that's never stopped a student (almost) like any other! And it's not about change today!
