Paloma, the first queen of France, presents "Paloma au Plurielles", the comic adaptation of her show.

They can be bourgeois, actresses, shamans or queens of France, the seven women that Hugo Bardin portrays in his show have all something in common: they will make you laugh to death. So don't wait to enjoy this comic strip with a cynical and sophisticated spirit that pays tribute to the art of French humor... without any taboos! A must-have of black humor and French drag.
