Little rabbit explores the many meanings of love, learning from his friends that sharing, helping, and bringing joy to others make it truly special.

On the first day of spring, little rabbit feels the joy of nature's renewal. Curious, he asks his friends about the meaning of love: big teddy bear believes love is about sharing, sparrows see it as time together, and beaver thinks it's about helping others. After reuniting with a friend from last spring, little rabbit learns from a gentle young fawn that love also means brightening others' hearts when they're sad. He realizes that love is about bringing joy and warmth to others.
