Artificial intelligence is revolutionizing the world.

At the intersection of the diverse sectors for its application, and numerous actors both public and private alike, AI is wreaking havoc on the balance of international power. In less than twenty years, the giants of the digital industry have become veritable superpowers. AI is now an object of global competition, highlighting the rivalry between China and the U.S while shoring up its domination over the rest of the world.

Horn of plenty or threat to humanity? Pascal Boniface and Victor Pelpel give us 40 well-researched informational factsheets for understanding the issues and challenges in a rapidly accelerating sector. Lavishly illustrated with maps, infographics, figures, and tables.
