The choice of Nathalie Larmanjat, Foreign Rights Manager

"An atlas for understanding our world's polymorphic global transformations and learning to take action in these unprecedented times."

Climate change, biodiversity loss, demographic evolution, urbanization, atmospheric pollution, soil degradation, natural disasters, industrial accidents, health crises, social movements, international summits... Gathering data for the first time from different components of ecological transformation, this atlas puts its sheer magnitude, as well as the interrelatedness of its causes and consequences, on full display. An inventory of the world's current state as clear-eyed as it is unforgiving. A call to action.
