Young people from all around the world: we can save our planet!

This book features 15 portraits of young people from ages 10 to 25 fighting worldwide for various causes. Inspired by figures like Greta Thunberg and Emma González, they take to the streets for the future of their generation. Each profile tells how their struggle began and how personal involvement grew into collective action, highlighting the core issue each raises, and sharing a few personal traits that make each activist unique.
