Riad Sattouf illustrates Saint-Exupéry's Wind, Sand and Stars with 150 illustrations: night flights over the sea, solitude of the desert, fraternity... the images reveal the link between the great adventures and our humanity that Saint-Exupéry explored

"The almost mystical perseverance of the Aéropostale pilots, the desert, brotherly friendship, action, death, the melancholy of existing, and the wonder of facing the beauty and brutality of nature... Illustrating Saint-Exupéry's aviation novels has always been my dream. [...] I hope to have made a useful contribution to the Saint-Exupéry legend: to help a new generation of readers to discover this magnificent text, filled with human adventures and emotions – so that it might also instill in them the desire to live life to the full." – Riad Sattouf
